FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Is this a private tour?
Your road vehicle and driver-guide are private to your booking. Gorilla and golden monkey treks are park-managed activities in assigned groups, so they are shared with other permit holders.

What does the price depend on?
From USD 10,800. Indicative peak-season prices in USD per non-resident adult. We confirm the rate for your dates before booking. Contact our team to plan this itinerary.

Which accommodation is included?
The proposed nightly stays are Wilderness Sabyinyo. These are accommodation choices for the itinerary, not confirmed reservations. Your written quotation names the final property, room type and meal plan.

Are arrival and departure hotels included?
Only nights explicitly listed in the programme are included. We can quote an arrival hotel and a final hotel separately. Do not count an airport drop-off as an overnight stay.

Who can join gorilla trekking?
Visit Rwanda states that gorilla trekkers must be at least 15. The forest can be steep, muddy and physically demanding. Tell us about support needs before booking so the operator and park can assess the arrangements.

How long is the gorilla encounter?
The gorilla viewing period is up to one hour once the group reaches the family. This is separate from the walk, which can take several hours and varies with the animals' location. No particular family or easy walk is guaranteed.

What should I bring?
Bring sturdy walking boots, long trousers, long sleeves, a light waterproof jacket, gloves, a daypack and water. Follow the ranger's current distance, hygiene and photography instructions. Tell the guide if you feel unwell before a trek.

Can the route change?
Yes. We tailor the trip before booking. Weather, road access and park instructions may also require changes during travel. Any material price change is explained; the agreed written quotation is the booking reference.
